

ABSTRACT

In a heterogeneous mobile telecommunication system such as the Universal Mobile Telephone system, a system and method of resource allocation comprising the steps of determining the current proportion of each rate traffic for a telecommunication cell; the base
5 transceiver station controlling the cell then applying a predetermined threshold to the loading level in that cell.

0978239 040
T04T20 65E2B260